Reimagining Health Care

1973-1974 — Multiple predecessor organizations are established, including the Multnomah Foundation for Medical Care (MFMC) in Oregon, the New Mexico Medical Review Association (NMMRA), the Utah Professional Review Organization (UPRO) and the Washington State Professional Standards Review Organization (WSPSRO). These organizations implement the new Medicare Professional Standards Review Organization Program to oversee quality of care at the local level.

1975 — Our first Medicaid contract (WA).

1978 — End Stage Renal Disease (ESRD) Network Program is established by Congress; Northwest Renal Network implements operations.

1984 — Medicare Peer Review Organization (PRO) Program is implemented, with contracts in AK, NM, OR, UT and WA. MFMC merges with Oregon Medical Professional Review Association (OMPRO). WSPSRO becomes Professional Review Organization for Washington (PRO/W), expanding into Alaska and establishing Alaska operations.

1986 — PRO/W establishes Idaho office to implement PRO contract operations.

1988 — UPRO establishes Nevada Peer Review (NPR), implementing the PRO Program in Nevada.

1992 — Outlook Associates is founded to provide health information technology consulting.

1993 — PRO/W changes its name to PRO-West to reflect multistate operations and a commitment to improving care on a broader level.

1994 — NPR and UPRO and become HealthInsight and expand its focus beyond the Medicare and Medicaid populations.

1999 — PRO Program evolves to become the Quality Improvement Organization (QIO) Program.

2000 — Oregon Health Care Quality Corporation (Q Corp) is founded to improve the quality and affordability of health care in Oregon.

2001 — Marc Bennett assumes role as HealthInsight president and chief executive officer.

2002 — PRO-West becomes Qualis Health and amplifies its mission.

2005 — Qualis Health acquires Outlook Associates to expand services into health IT consulting.

2006 — OMPRO is rebranded as Acumentra Health.
